Our Flour Manufacturers.

Last Monday the Lebanon barrel factory sold seventeen thousand barrels to a Nashville firm—Herald.

Now, the miller who bought those barrels must be anticipating an active trade in flour.

Such is fine to be the feeling amongst all our millers. We are glad to see it so, for their business has been somewhat depressed more than a few months. It is time their day was coming. The flour market is firm and fairly active here, at Nashville.

THINGS IN WILLIAMSON.

A Variety of Gossip from Franklin—The Kites and the Wheat—Mention of Persons—Criminal Notes, Etc.

FRANKLIN, July 21, 1875.—Heavy rains set in this morning, and the wheat is being threshed in consequence. Farmers who have not yet finished threshing are looking rather blue. However, a great many of them, who say that they could not thresh for some time, wisely laid their wheat stacked during the dry days, thereby securing it from wet weather.

Messrs. Bond and Johnson, of this county, have shipped about one hundred and twenty-five thousand feet of splendid poplar lumber from this place to Cincinnati in the last few days. It is the finest lot of lumber ever shipped from the county.

Mr. T. W. Dick Bullock, besides being one of the cleverest men in the county, is also one of the best lawyers at this or any other place. When he goes to make a speech to a jury, all his friends who desire to hear him, go to the front doors and listen. His paper, the Review and Journal, is one of the liveliest papers in the State and is highly appreciated by the people, but not as much as it ought to be, much to the discredit of the people of Williamson county. I am decidedly in favor of people who read the Review and Journal, and know the Union and American to be of the same opinion.

City druggists have opened the fall campaign. They try to lure enough to sell goods, but merchants generally say "Nix." Business is too dull to give a call as soon as the fall season opens.

The trial of the negro rioters of the 8th district, when they were tried on two warrants, one for kidnapping and the other for conspiracy, is said to be very interesting.

A man living not far from Franklin has several cows which he keeps in a small pen. One of them has lately developed a considerable propensity for kicking. A few mornings since it kicked, and his goat was killed. He is now looking for a new one to keep in his place, and has called him back and very affectionately handed him the milking bucket, saying, "Come, my little goat, and let me milk you." He was so kind, that the goat, who was so kind, and as an excuse said he was afraid of the kicking cow. She pointed the bucket at him and said, "Come, my little goat, and let me milk you." He was so kind, that the goat, who was so kind, and as an excuse said he was afraid of the kicking cow.
